THE STATUS QUO MUST GO!

The November election results hammered home one important point resoundingly: If the Democratic Party is to take back the House this year and the Presidency in 2028, the status quo must go!

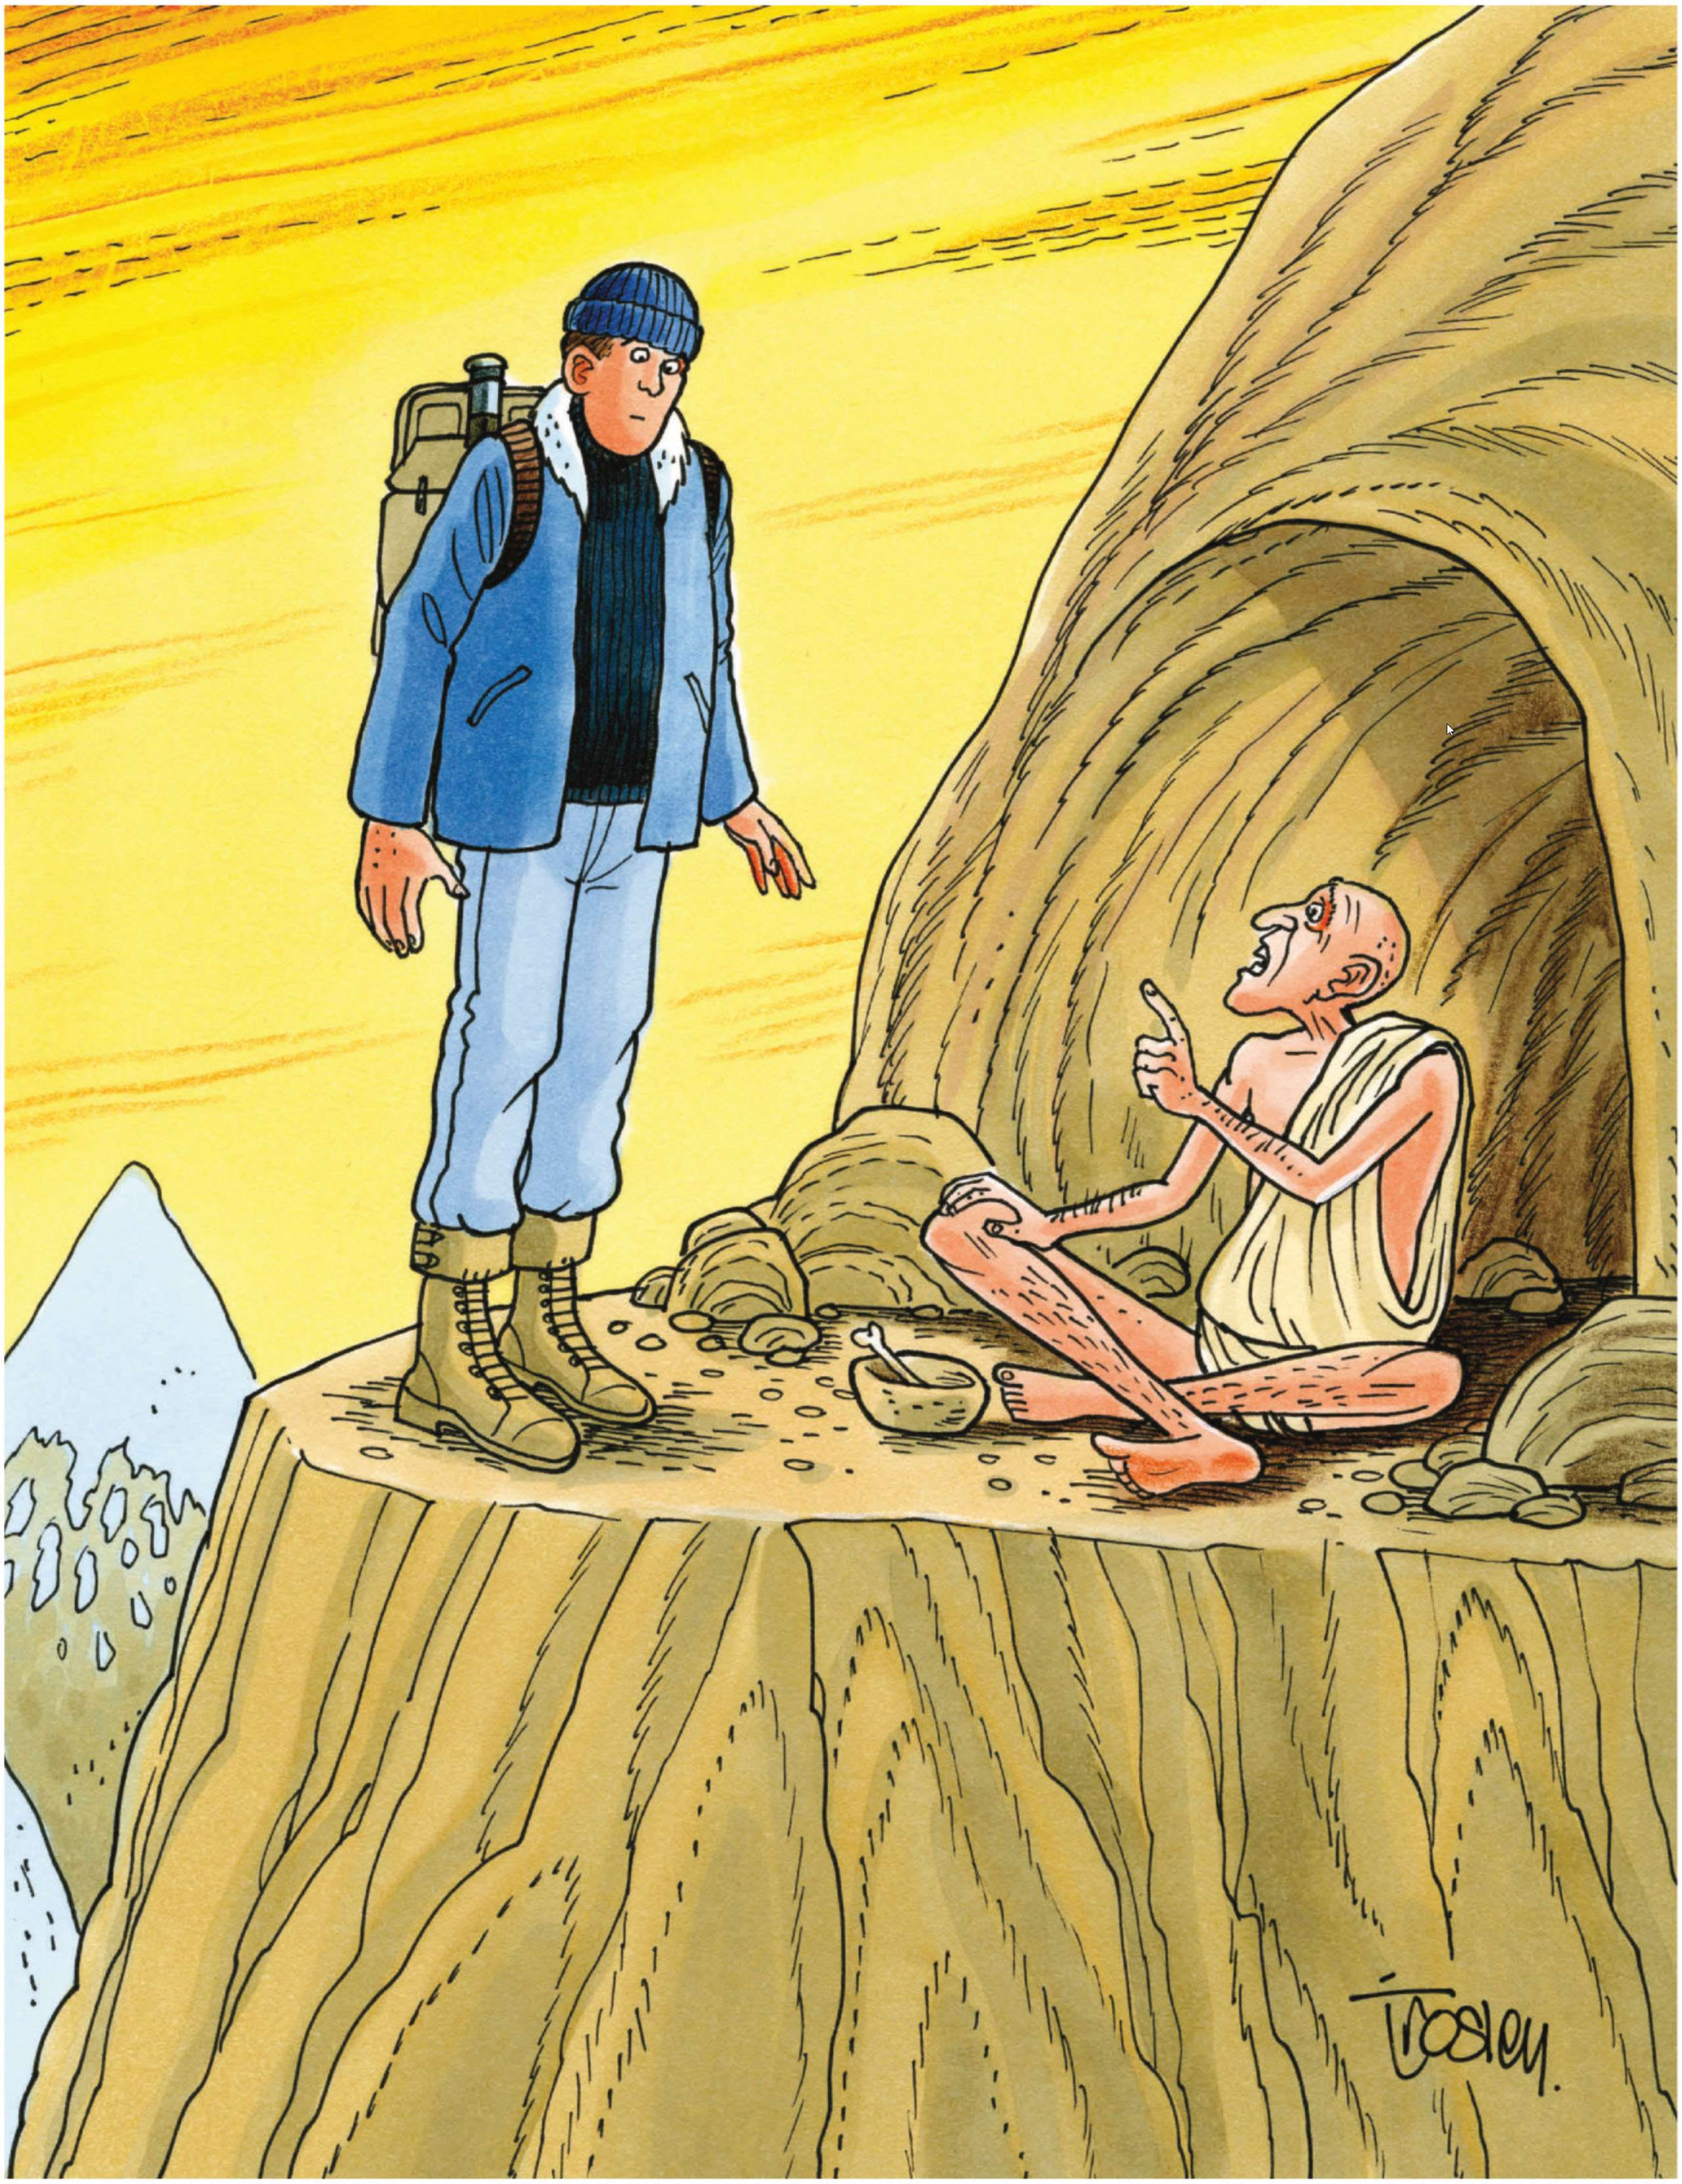
Democrats scored huge wins in Virginia, New Jersey and New York City. In fact, both Abigail Spanberger and Mikie Sherrill crushed their competition by double digits to be elected governors of Virginia and New Jersey respectively. Spanberger and Sherrill are moderates, while New York's new mayor, Zohran Mamdani, is a progressive Democratic Socialist. What are the common denominators? Youth—Mamdani was 34, Spanberger 46 and Sherrill 53 at the time of the election. But more than that, they spoke to Americans about issues we all care about: Affordability. Being able to make ends meet every month. The belief that if you work hard, you can put food on the table, a roof over your family's head and live a good life.

Trump's big Presidential campaign promise was to bring down costs. Instead, since he has taken office, grocery prices have risen every month but one. In August 2024, he vowed, "Under my administration we will be slashing energy and electricity prices by half within 12 months." Figures from January through August 2025 show an increase of over 10.5% for residential electricity. The average price of a new car topped $50,000 for the first time ever in September. And healthcare—well, 24 million Americans are now seeing their ACA premiums soar—some to as high as 500% of their premiums last year.

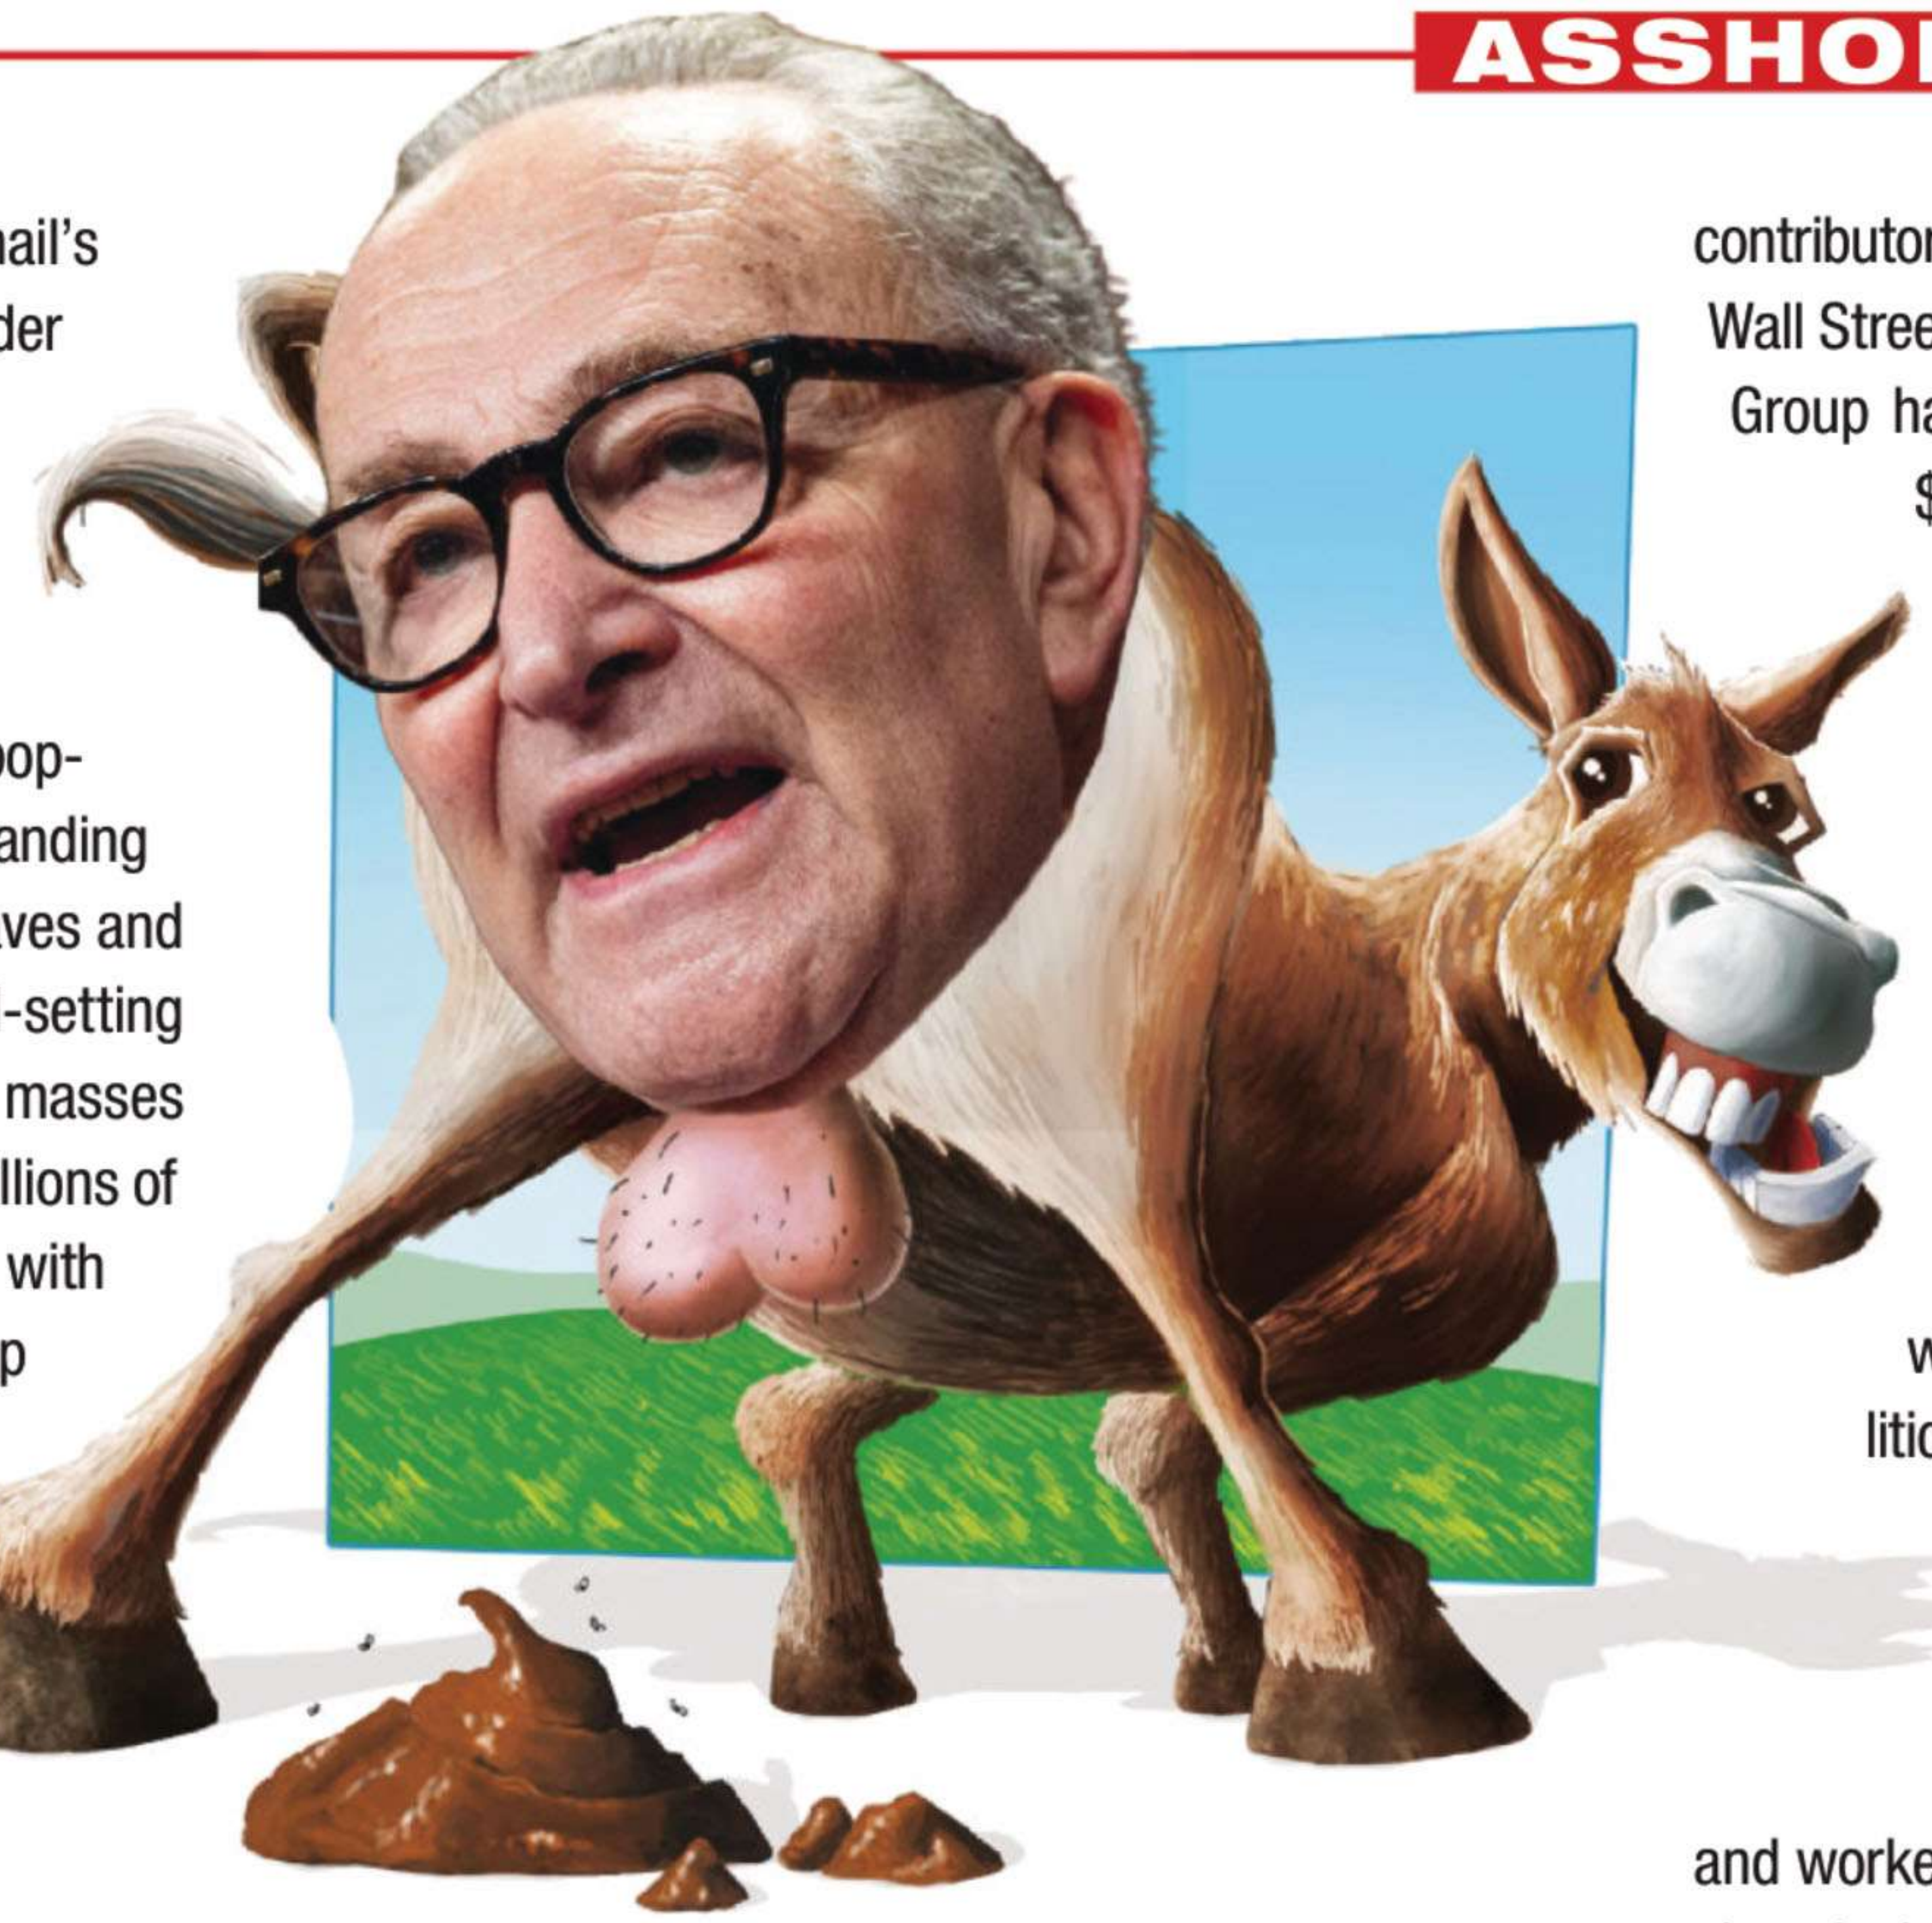
Which brings us full circle to our theme: The status quo must go. Under Chuck Schumer's tired, ineffective leadership, the Democratic Party has languished. He could not even corral Senators to a successful conclusion to the government shutdown, namely an extension of ACA healthcare subsidies. If Dems had held on till Thanksgiving, Republicans would have likely caved. Instead, the government was shut down for 43 days for what? The promise of a vote? In other words, nothing!

Exit polls from November show Americans mad as hell at the Trump Administration's policies and lies. If the Democratic Party just capitalizes on this anger with youthful, energetic candidates who talk about kitchen table issues, we can and will win!

Liz Flynt
Publisher



"The first thing you must do is totally detach yourself from reality.
Go home and join the Republican Party."



CHUCK SCHUMER

Time seems to be moving at a snail's pace as Democrats seethe under the GOP's domination in Washington, D.C. How in the hell did we get here? Part of the answer is that Trump has perpetrated one of history's most masterful con jobs, masquerading as a populist hero as his policies continue expanding the historic wealth gap between the haves and have-nots. During the recent record-setting government shutdown (43 days!), the masses received another slap in the face: As millions of Americans edged closer to starvation with the disruption of SNAP benefits, Trump publicized his remodel of the bathroom in the Lincoln Bedroom, complete with gold-plated fixtures—a pisser fit for a Roman emperor.

"Donald Trump actually cares more about his toilet than he does about fixing your healthcare," said Democratic Senator Chuck Schumer. That is certainly true. But it is also true that Chuck Schumer himself—along with other incompetent, compromised Democrats—failed to save what little publicly subsidized healthcare we do have and are, in no small part, responsible for the prolonged GOP nightmare we're in now.

After sticking to their guns for 43 days, refusing any deal to reopen the federal government that did not include a renewal of Obamacare subsidies, eight Senate Democrats cravenly defected, voting with Republicans to end the impasse. Now healthcare premiums for many of the 24 million Americans who purchase their insurance through the Affordable Care Act have more than doubled, at a time when the cost of living is rising out of sight! Chuck Schumer did not vote with the traitors, but he failed to exercise the party discipline expected of a Minority Leader, especially since he was holding good cards. Polls showed that more of the public was blaming Republicans for the shutdown and Trump's approval rating had fallen to a second-term low of 37%. Had a hard-nosed leader like LBJ been in charge, this loss would never have happened. "This was a very weird time to cave…the party is coming off a great election night less than a week ago…Democrats won in Georgia and Mississippi; there literally wasn't a single bad result. Why kill that momentum cold? It's really politically tone deaf," wrote Michael Tomasky in The New Republic.

Chuck Schumer has been a fixture in the Democratic Party forever. He served nine terms in the U.S. House of Representatives, till 1999, when he began his long tenure as U.S. Senator for New York—a position he's held for 26 years, with stints as either Senate Majority or Minority Leader. He's also been chief of the Senate Democratic Caucus since 2017. Except for when Barak Obama was President for two terms, Schumer has been, effectively, the head coach of the Donkeys for a quarter of a century. He's done some good things—and many that are not so good. Before Trump's first triumph in 2016, Schumer confidently predicted victory for Hillary Clinton with this line: "For every blue-collar Democrat we lose in western Pennsylvania, we will pick up two moderate Republicans in the suburbs in Philadelphia. And you can repeat that in Ohio and Illinois and Wisconsin."

How well did that work out, Chuck? Hillary's line about the "basket of deplorables" also reflected a disdain for the blue-collar crowd that has been the base of the Democratic Party since FDR and the New Deal. Instead, with Schumer in charge, the party went full speed in another direction: identity politics, with an emphasis on race and gender issues, confident that changing demographics would ensure Democratic dominance. After Trump broke all the rules, the Democratic Party evolved into a party representing the college-educated crowd—"in the suburbs"—generally wealthier than the non-college-educated "working class" that has always been more socially conservative. Your average working-class American is not well tuned in to microaggressions, critical race theory, trans bathroom rights and some of the other "woke" obsessions of campus life today.

The problem with this drift, and Schumer's bad political calculus, is that, according to the Economic Policy Institute, approximately 65% of Americans in the labor force do not hold a college degree—a substantial majority. They are "working class" or small-business entrepreneurs. Many are just trying to make ends meet, surviving from paycheck to paycheck and hoping some unaffordable emergency doesn't strike. But Schumer represents New York, including the Wall Street pirates who've made out like bandits in the last few decades. During Chuck's time in Congress, his top contributors have been securities and investment firms. Wall Street kings like Goldman Sachs and Blackstone Group have funded his career to the tune of over $1.2 million. And he has repaid their investment handsomely, supporting the repeal of the venerable 1933 Glass-Steagall Act, which led to the 2008 financial crisis, resulting in an approximate 40% decline in median net worth for middle-income families in the U.S. While serving on both the Senate Banking and Finance Committees, Schumer blocked all attempts to tax financial gains at the same rate paid by hardworking wage earners. "He burns all his political capital on defending despised banks," said critic Ryan Cooper in 2018.

On foreign policy, Chuck might as well be a Republican. He voted for George W.'s disastrous invasion of Iraq and worked hard to sabotage President Obama's nuclear deal with Iran. Although Schumer has made some public criticisms of Netanyahu, he consistently sponsors bills like the Israel Anti-Boycott Act, and even claims that the continuing Israeli settlements in the West Bank are not an obstacle to peace in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. What utter bullshit! At a time when sympathies for the Palestinians over the Israelis have flipped by more than 70 percentage points over the last two years among young Democrats, and with even many Republicans becoming disillusioned with Netanyahu's policies in Gaza, calling the actions a "genocide," Chuck remains a slavish Israel Firster in America. "My job is to keep the left pro-Israel," he said. The man is completely out of touch with his base. Most Americans are sick of the tail wagging the dog here.

On top of all this, Schumer has advocated for reviving the federal death penalty in the case of the Boston Marathon bomber, and in 2007, Schumer voted to approve Dubya Bush's nominee for U.S. Attorney General, Michael Mukasey, even though Mukasey refused to declare that waterboarding was illegal torture. Do we really need a pro-torture, pro-death penalty geezer leading the Democratic Party? One of our best Democratic congressmen, Ro Khanna from California, sums it up: "I mean, he doesn't inspire confidence. He's not bold. He's out of touch with the grassroots. He's someone who cheer-led us into the war in Iraq. He doesn't have the moral clarity on Gaza. He couldn't say [Zohran] Mamdani's name. And this was the final straw, where he was not strong on fighting for healthcare."

Consider this analogy: A football team can win the Super Bowl with superior play. It can also win against a superior opponent that fucks up so badly, defeat is snatched from the jaws of victory. Sometimes it's bad coaching that spoils the win. In pro sports, there is no tolerance for bad coaches; they are fired. The same kind of reckoning is overdue for the bad coaches of the Democratic Donkeys. For the good of the party and the nation, Chuck, it's time for you to hang it up. H

Growing up, I was a total perfectionist—I wanted to look perfect, I made sure my room was clean, and I got perfect grades. I'm still a perfectionist, but now it's channeled into my work. I always try to outdo myself with every shoot! When I'm not working, I'm usually working out, whether it's hot Pilates or heavy weights.

"When it comes to a man, it's important that he has those same qualities. My perfect partner is ambitious and very work-oriented, but also me-oriented. He should love to work out —and work me out. :)

"These days, most of my sex happens at work, though I masturbate at least once a day. Which isn't to say I'm done with sex in my personal life. There are still a ton of things I want to try, like a real BDSM experience. And I have a weird sexual fantasy of being abducted by aliens! I think it would be so cool, and I hope they do some very sexy things to me."

PARDON MY FRENCH

PHOTOGRAPHY BY
LARRY FLYNT PRODUCTIONS

A lot of people wouldn't guess it from looking at me, but I'm from France. And I'm a typical Frenchwoman to the core. After all, we have a reputation for indulging in sensuality—and that's definitely true of me!

"When I'm with a man, he learns a thing or two. Especially vocabulary. Like, Jouer avec mes gros seins—that means, 'Play with my big tits.' Or Laisse-moi te sucer la bite—that translates to, 'Let me suck your dick.' Another phrase I like to use is, Caresser ma chatte—which means, 'Stroke my pussy.'

"My hands-down favorite, though? Baise-moi fort—'Fuck me hard.' When a guy learns that one and applies it properly, he'll hear all sorts of things come out of my mouth. Screams and moans, mostly. Those, of course, require no translation."

You never forget your very first time. Neither will Victoria.

"I'm a very modest girl by nature, so being naked in a magazine is a very big deal," says our spanking-new discovery with the sexiest French accent imaginable. "It really isn't anything I thought I could ever be courageous enough to try. Posing gave me an incredible feeling of freedom and empowerment, and I have to admit, I also liked all the attention I got from the photographer and his doting assistants. Plus, the warmth from the hot lights felt great on my bare skin."

Only 18, Victoria is almost virginal. "I haven't had a lot of sex so far," she confesses. "The first time was so rushed and clumsy that I thought I was doing it all wrong. It took a couple of tries to find the right lover. For me that's a strong, patient man who spends a lot of time with foreplay. I think oral pleasure is the best gift a man can give a woman, and I like to return the favor."

Alas, Victoria will soon be returning to France, but her much-too-brief visit to our shores was truly satisfying. "Coming to America was a wonderful experience," the willowy beauty recalls. "There are so many new things that I am discovering. I love Los Angeles almost as much as I love my hometown. I say almost because nothing beats living in Paris. Both cities thrive with food, nightlife and beautiful people looking for love. Perhaps some of your readers can come visit me sometime?"

DREAM COME TRUE

PHOTOGRAPHY BY ELLEN STAGG

HUSTLER Magazine has always been in my life. I would see issues on the newsstand and wish that I was the girl on the cover—I loved how sexy the girls were and dreamed of being like them someday. I met Liz Flynt at a 50th Anniversary party in NYC, and she is such a lovely woman. Needless to say, shooting for HUSTLER was a dream come true!

"I've always been a free spirit, running around half-naked. You couldn't keep clothes on me, and I'm still just the same! That's why this job is so perfect for me; I love sharing myself and being admired! I'm definitely an extrovert. When I walk into a room, I like to become the star of the show.

"I've had sex in a lot of crazy places: a car, the park, a movie theater, the bathroom at a club—I feel like I'm forgetting somewhere! I've done almost everything, but I have some things that I would still like to try. For instance, I've always wanted to get gangbanged.

"I get really turned on by humble confidence—people who know who they are and don't need to prove themselves to anyone are so sexy. My ideal partner is someone who understands me and is funny, successful, strong and loving. I actually like an old-fashioned relationship; I love being taken care of. Believe me, when that happens, I'll make sure I take care of my partner too!"

WELCOME BACK TO “50 QUESTIONS,” WHERE WE ASK YOUR FAVORITE CREAM QUEENS 50 BURNING QUESTIONS, AND THEY ANSWER—HONESTLY! IN THIS SIXTH INSTALLMENT, PREPARE FOR A MASTERCLASS IN PURE SIZZLE WITH RENOWNED MILF RYAN KEELY.

HUSTLER: You were just reincarnated as a zebra. Honestly, how well do you think you would do?
RYAN KEELY: I’d thrive. Zebras aren’t used like horses because they’re feral, free and refuse to be domesticated. They don’t carry your weight, they don’t take commands, and they bite if you try.

2. Oh, no! You accidentally drank a potion, and now you smell like hot-buttered popcorn 24/7. How are you going to handle this?
I’d make a deal with a movie theater chain and turn it into marketing gold—just like Cinnabon pumping their signature scent through malls and airports. Weaponized aroma. Make it profitable.

3. What is the weirdest thing you’ve found in your bra/cleavage?
Well, I found a live lizard in my pants the night before a boxing match in Vegas. I suspect my cats put it in my suitcase as a gift and it just happened to hide in the pants I put on.

4. What is something in your refrigerator right now that we’d be surprised to find?
LSD.

5. What board game can you kick anyone’s ass at?
I’m not competitive in that way. I’m just thankful that I’ve tricked people into doing an activity with me. I would say Magic: The Gathering when I use my blue deck…but I pity the fool who dares challenge me with my blue deck.

6. Would you rather have your boobs make a duck quacking noise or a cat hissing sound any time they’re touched?
One of each please. A built-in soundboard has tremendous comedic potential.

7. You’ve just been inducted into the Guinness Book of World Records! What was it for?
Having a threesome while operating a puppet. This is real. The scene premise was a perverted public access show where my character and the puppet were teaching the audience how to bake a cake. The set was an 8x10 backdrop, a single folding chair and a card table covered in baking supplies for the cake cooking demonstration. There was no script, just several positions the production company wanted included, so I needed to improvise the dialogue for myself and the puppet through the whole scene.

8. What is something that feels illegal but isn’t?
Not passing the Equal Rights Amendment. Tax on menstrual products. HOAs. Ignoring direct orders from a federal judge to remove persons who are residing in the United States to a foreign country with no due process. Guantanamo Bay. HOAs. Super PACs. Call times before 10 a.m. The various forces that caused Nat Sherman to quit manufacturing Fantasia and Black & Gold cigarettes. Putting vermouth in a dirty martini. Taking off your shoes in a place of business. Doing a bang-bang at two different drive-thrus. Did I mention HOAs?

9. What was the last thing you burned on the stove?
A grilled cheese sandwich. I was playing video games in the other room.

10. From having memorized a bevy of porn scripts over your career, what mainstream movie role do you just know you could have nailed and why?
“Scripts” and “memorized” are very generous descriptions of what happens on most porn productions. In my 20s I was baffled by why I wasn’t tracked down to star in Æon Flux. If they do a live-action version of the Archer cartoon, I’m the perfect Pam.

11. Is there a certain color that makes your blood boil and you can’t explain why?
Anything that makes me look washed out. It’s sabotaging my already fragile self-esteem!

12. You’ve just been cursed. Sorry! You have a choice: Have your weight announced any time you enter a room or have the last time you had a bowel movement announced?
My weight. Being transparent might help others be a little kinder to themselves about the numbers on their scale. That said, my weight fluctuates with my bowel movements—so anyone close to me could probably figure out when I last pooped based on the daily variations.

13. How different would your life be if you had the ability to read birds’ thoughts?
Birds aren’t real, so not in the slightest.

14. You made an amazing cameo in Eminem’s music video “Houdini”! What was that entire experience like?
Unexpected. I got a text from a casting director I know at 4 p.m. asking if I’d be available for a music video the next day. I wasn’t told the artist or even the label—just signed an NDA and submitted my info. Around 9 p.m., I texted to check if it was a go. At 10 p.m., I was put in touch with wardrobe and quickly realized I’d be dressing myself. A 9 a.m. call time didn’t leave time for shopping. I spent the rest of the night photographing my wardrobe, going back and forth with them until well after midnight. Then I rubbed on a tan, touched up my nails and tried to get a few hours of sleep. When I arrived on set, the hair and makeup team were just finding out they had two more women to glam. That’s when I re-met Sam Mack, as we were all being rushed through the beauty shuffle. I still had no idea who the video was for, but based on the size of the production, I was already regretting not submitting a higher rate. Like porn, music videos don’t pay residuals.

Sam and I were walked to set. I was sprayed down with PAM cooking spray and artfully arranged in a giant bed—which promptly collapsed. Most people wouldn’t expect women like Sam and me to be handy, but we are. I was delighted to explain the proper way to fix the bed’s structural problems. I had recently broken my own bed at home and replaced the crossbars and slats with upgraded wood and thicker hardware. I wasn't allowed to get involved in the rebuild due to union rules, but this sparked a flurry of terrible puns and dad jokes that had Sam cracking up. So while the production bros tried to rebuild the bed around us, I focused on making Sam laugh—drilling, pounding, screwing…you get the idea. She opened up about repairing motorcycles, and a real friendship was born. Eventually, a stand-in came to block for camera and lighting. When they turned on the projection backdrop, I saw something familiar in the set design and the costume the stand-in was wearing. That's when it clicked: Oh. This is an Eminem video. Unfortunately for everyone involved, I was running on three hours of sleep and Red Vines—and there was no stopping the innuendo-fueled teasing and giggling. It was a gas.

15. Speaking of music videos, which music video is the closest to depicting your life perfectly and why?

"I Wanna be Sedated" by The Ramones. Because I would like to be. What's Michael Jackson's doctor doing? Is he out yet?

16. Be honest—what's the longest you've gone without bathing, and what were the circumstances?

Neither of these answers are fun. Either when I was hospitalized with multiple blood clots in my lungs and thoracic outlet. Or maybe during a major depressive episode. Four days? Five days?

17. What percentage of cocks that you've worked with do you think you could pick out of a lineup?

Maybe 12%.

18. If you could make douches any scent/flavor, what would you choose?

I would make them pH balancing and soothing so I could taste good clean pussy.

19. To say you're handy with a hammer is a gross understatement! When did you first start channeling your inner "Sexy Bob the Builder"?

I don't remember a time when I wasn't working with tools or building things. My dad's a contractor, and my mom's a farm person who cooked everything from scratch. I started cooking on the stove at age three. There are pictures. It was only scrambled eggs, but still. As soon as I could read and start racking up library fines, my dad took me to job sites after school and on weekends.

20. Speaking of hammering, what projects have you been working on as of late with your DIY know-how?

Rearranging and organizing my friend's homes. I have a bookcase I need to sand and stain, but it will take a second set of hands. The projects that are the most pressing involve electrical and plumbing, which I will not do. It's worth hiring a licensed professional for those.

21. You are a huge Dungeons & Dragons enthusiast! When did you first get super deep into this tabletop fantasy game?

During lockdown, I started playing remotely with the women I now have a podcast with! Previously, I was more of a MTG [Magic: The Gathering] player, still am. Usually, I keep it casual with home games where there are no illegal cards and free mulligans. However—I did just go to Gen Con, where I got to play on the field of a football stadium! There is no bingo card in existence that had Ryan Keely playing anything in any sports arena, let alone a professional one. For those who know, it was a sealed deck commander tournament, my least favorite format. We were given secret unreleased test cards to build our decks along with the normal six booster packs.

22. Something that makes you even sexier—if that's possible—is the fact you're an avid reader! What's the most recent book you've read?

I'm not a one-book-at-a-time reader—I usually have anywhere from three to ten books going, depending on my mood, current work projects or whatever niche topic I'm hyper-focused on. I average about three books a week, and I always keep three genres in rotation: history, romance and art/fashion/design. I rely heavily on audiobooks and e-books from the Los Angeles Public Library—bless them—because physical books take up space and I can't always make it to the library. That said, I still collect oversized art and design books; they go out of print and are worth owning physically. I no longer collect comics, but I've kept my favorite stories in graphic novel or omnibus form. I believe books are meant to be read, not sealed in plastic. If you won't let yourself read at the breakfast table or at a bar for fear of spills, you are robbing your brain. Right now, I'm reading The Letter of Marque, This Is Not About You(th), and I just finished The Land Steward's Daughter. I'll be reading Scandal Wears Satin within the next 32 hours—thank you, library due dates, for keeping me accountable. I finish at least one romance novel a week, usually historical romance. I prefer it because it's often written by women for women and about women. I don't enjoy modern or overly explicit romance. I already know how to fuck, and graphic depictions of sex are hardly novel in my line of work. That's also why I'm not into the fairy smut trend. Too much sex; too many magic powers. A man who is romantic, emotionally present and fully invested in the protagonist? That's fantasy enough. No dragons needed.

23. Wait, I'm not done with your voracious appetite for literature. You've read 636 books according to your Goodreads profile. What genre really sparks your interest?

Based on volume, historical romance.

24. Oh, no (or yay)! A wizard has transported you into one of your favorite stories. What book is it and what character are you?

I can't pick.

25. Bad news! You've time-traveled back to the late 1600s and have been put on trial for being a witch! What was it you did that made the townsfolk fearful of you?

Existed as a woman.

26. Time to really anger people: Is a hot dog a sandwich? Defend your choice.

Sandwich. A sandwich is a split roll or two slices of bread around a filling. If someone wanted to argue that a hot dog is—or isn't—a >> taco, that debate has more legs. I'd argue it's not a taco because the bread is leavened. But you could also argue it is a taco based on the way the bread, or "delivery system," wraps around the filling.

RICKY GREENWOOD

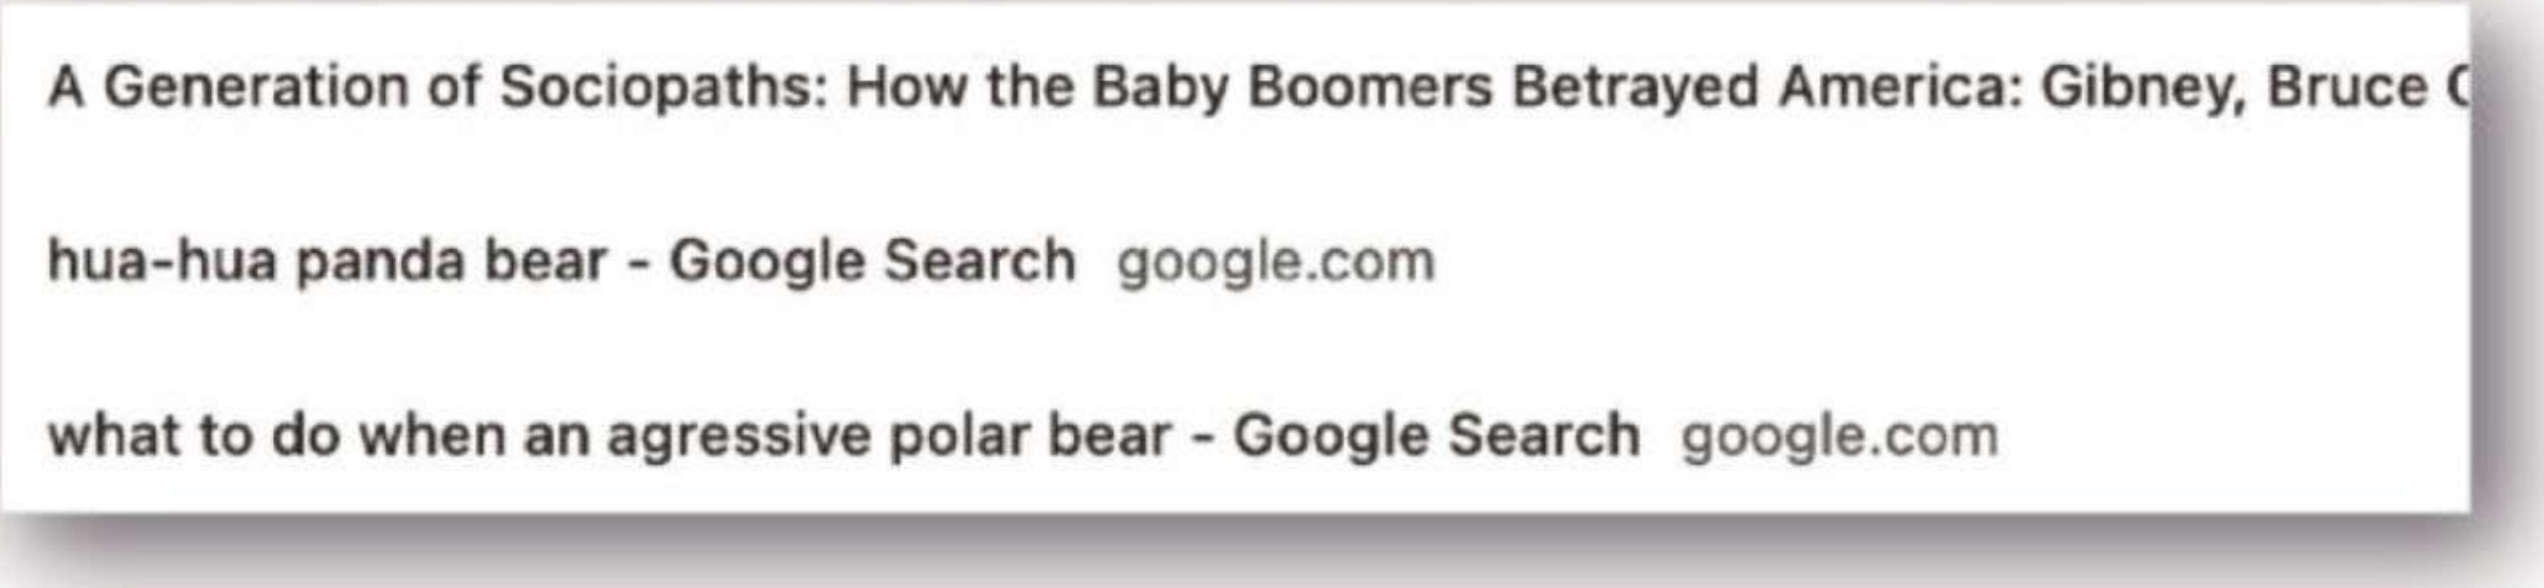
27. If we checked your internet search history right now, what are your last three searches (no cheating)?



A Generation of Sociopaths: How the Baby Boomers Betrayed America: Gibney, Bruce hua-hua panda bear - Google Search google.com

what to do when an agressive polar bear - Google Search google.com

28. You have the well-earned and deserved title of "America's Favorite Stepmom"! What are the makings of being one?
I'm sorry—the position of AFSM has been filled. If you haven't been making that specific joke since 2016, please GTFO. If I were starting the BG [boy-girl] portion of my career now, I'd probably go with a different log-line. I'm not entirely sure how I'd brand myself today. That said, I was recently trying to buy the URL CroneHub. Sadly, it's already taken. Some of the taglines I had in mind were:

- Erotic. Elegant. Elderly.
- Like all good steaks, this meat is aged.

29. Speaking of stepmoms, how many dryers have you been stuck in?
Two. The first one was for porn, and the second one was to clean out ink from an eyeliner pen that exploded during drying.

30. Okay, let's backtrack. You are one of the hosts of I Seduce the Dragon. What's the premise of this intriguingly named podcast?
A rocket scientist, a cowgirl, a porn star and a mom walk into a dungeon… and those are just the players. I Seduce the Dragon is a biweekly actual-play Dungeons & Dragons podcast, brilliantly produced and sound-designed with the nonplayer in mind. Hosted by a group of high-achieving women across wildly different fields, I Seduce the Dragon takes on tabletop gaming from a hilariously high femme perspective.

31. You just stumbled upon a sacred tree and have been given the powers of Mother Nature for 24 hours! What do you do with her might and wrath?
Reverse 100 years of climate change.

32. What would you do for a Klondike bar?
Nothing. I don't dig on ice cream.

33. You've just been recruited as a top-secret agent and spy. What is your code name, and what skill set would you utilize to complete your missions?
Like nicknames, code names are assigned not chosen. To pick one's own is overly revealing of the psyche and unspeakably cringe. However, an ideal mission would require making love, enduring long spa treatments and shopping for a makeover montage of a person and/or location.

34. #BreakingBearNews is all over your X posts. When did your passion and fascination for these Ursidae begin?
One of my earliest memories is of my dad and uncle packing up the coolers of food, the clothes we wore at dinner, the camp stove and other kitchen gear into our canoe. They paddled it out onto the lake and anchored it about 100 feet offshore. Then they swam back to the campsite. We were canoe camping on the Canadian border, which is like backpacking but with boats. We were several days' paddle into the wilderness. I'd been seeing bears in the wild from a very young age—seeing them at a distance felt normal. But that night, I remember hearing a bear for the first time. The bellow of a mature bear close to the campsite was like nothing I had ever heard before. The bear did come and snuffle around our site and tent that night, but I don't remember that part—I was sleeping.

35. Okay, we have to know: If you were to encounter a bear in the wild, how would you deal with it and make sure not to become one's lunch?
Wear a whistle. A whistle is an excellent tool in any dangerous situation—whether the threat is man or bear. Carry bear spray while hiking in bear country. And if you're trained, licensed and it's legal in your area, consider whether carrying a weapon like a knife or firearm is right for you. Hike in a group and make noise to alert wildlife that you're entering their space. Stay aware of your surroundings. Don't smear yourself in honey. If you see a bear, observe its behavior from a safe distance. If keeping your distance isn't enough to avoid an encounter, seek shelter. Move to a vehicle, building or other sturdy structure for immediate protection. If no shelter is available and you're with a group, gather together to appear larger and more intimidating. Never turn your back on a bear. Whether you're alone or in a group, this is the moment to use bear spray, flares or other hazing tools to scare the bear away. Use ranged deterrents like spray, flares or firearms first. If a physical confrontation becomes unavoidable, defend yourself by any means necessary. This is when you use your knife or a found object. Keep making noise—use your whistle or your voice. Do not go limp or stop fighting. Any weapon is better than no weapon. After your bear sighting or encounter—if you survive—report it to local authorities or wildlife officials and seek medical attention if needed. And finally, do not attempt to take a selfie with a bear. Bears are not big dogs. They are not cuddly teddy bears. They are apex predators who have more of a right to live than any human.

36. Okay last bear question: You are featured with the hashtag BreakingBearNews—what would the headline for the article be and why?
"Ryan Keely is awarded honorary journalism degree from (insert prestigious journalism school here) for her ongoing #breakingbearnews project on Twitter/X."

37. What is the sexiest hardware tool and why?
A nail gun? I mean the name alone. The sound. The power. It definitely tops the other tools. I'm afraid to upgrade to one with a compressor. I'm not sure what I would do with that much power.

38. When was the last time you cussed someone out, and what were the circumstances surrounding it?
I don't understand the question, and I refuse to answer. >>

39. If your birthday, July 2nd, became a national holiday, which it honestly should be, how would you want people to celebrate it?
I choose to celebrate on the 4th because I don't mind sharing. Plus, everyone has the day off, so I know they can hang out. It's a great day to get in the pool—and there are fireworks and hot dogs!

40. How would you describe the taste of cum to someone who has never experienced it before?
In seventh grade, my classmate told me it tasted like Funyuns. I think she was lying about her level of sexual experience. Cum can taste like a lot of different things, depending on the situation. I hope the loads you take taste of triumph and wealth—and never of shame.

41. If you could never do a specific sex position again, which would you choose and why?
I don't love reverse cowgirl. It feels like a trust-fall but with penetration.

42. What can we find you wearing when you're relaxing at home?
Robes. Preferably fun Versace ones.

43. You were just gifted a parrot. What sentence would you choose for it to say, and what's the reason behind it?
Gifted? GIFTEDDDD!?!?!? A parrot is worse than a white elephant IMO. Firstly, I hate birds. Second, parrots who swear or utter vulgarity aren't eligible to live at any esteemed bird sanctuaries, and as it's inevitable a parrot would outlive me, it's important that there is a plan for the said parrot. I would never force a parrot upon another.

However, if I am forced to answer this question seriously, I suppose that the parrot could say, "Help! I've been cursed! Beware the evil wizard and his wicked ways. Tithe Ryan Keely 10% of all assets to avoid my fate."

44. Fill in the blank: "Ryan Keely was awarded a medal for bravery for _______"
Raising my rates against the advice of my agent and being transparent about pay with other performers? That's not really brave—but it was hard to do. Almost as hard as shooting porn with a larger, aging body. A lot of people don't want to see it, and they're vocal about it. But every time a woman says that seeing my body made her more comfortable with her own, it's worth every shitty comment.

45. What's your go-to song to belt out at the top of your lungs in the shower?
I don't sing in the shower. But I do have "Ghetto D" by Master P memorized and try and quote its maxims whenever possible. "Never sell drugs out your baby momma's house" is just good advice, and it's important to know the appropriate time to treat yourself to an uzi.

46. If you could squirt any color, what would you choose and why?
Payment processors have weird rules about what fluids a body is allowed to expel on camera. So I would have to pick clear, because squirting feels good and I want to keep doing it at work. Maybe clear with rainbow iridescence. Put some gay sparkle on my cum.

47. What is the horniest letter of the alphabet?
P. P is for pussy. The soft exhalation of air and the pursing of the lips to make the sound "P" are very similar to a kiss.

48. Without cheating, how many items in your fridge are expired right now?
None. I do a weekly sweep.

49. Speaking of food, share a memory of when you utilized food in the bedroom.
I utilize food in the bedroom every single day. Because it's where I eat the majority of my meals.

50. What can your fans look forward to next?
I'll continue producing original content and steamy collabs over at www.RyanKeely.com, and by the time you read this, I'll be deep into recording Season 3 of my D&D podcast, I Seduce the Dragon! It's available on all podcast platforms, and you can get a taste of the action on the social media platform of your choice by following @istdpod.

OLD-FASHIONED SEX FIEND

PHOTOGRAPHY BY
LARRY FLYNT PRODUCTIONS

Guess you could say I'm old-fashioned in a lot of ways: I love to bake and recently I picked up quilting. Who says a hot girl can't have granny hobbies?

"I'd say my love of sex is pretty traditional too. Horniness is a timeless quality that never goes out of style. How do you think we all got here, anyway? And I truly embrace that tradition. I've had some pretty kinky experiences, like doing five guys at once. That was the moment I knew I should do porn, and it has been an amazing experience, with tons of mind-blowing sex. During my scenes, I have such intense orgasms that I forget all about the camera being on me.

"I'm also pretty conventional in the sense that I put my partners' satisfaction first. You don't have to worry about me. The only one who should worry is me—about pleasing you!"

PHOTOGRAPHY BY MATTI KLATT

Cyndi's appearance on our January 1983 cover drew such an enthusiastic response from our readers that we couldn't refuse the countless requests to see more of her. But unlike many girls in Cyndi's enviable position, she didn't let the news of her popularity go to her head.

"It's like a dream come true!" exclaimed the 19-year-old legal secretary when we told her she'd been chosen for our centerfold. "I always wanted to be a model, but I didn't think I was the right type."

What is her idea of the "right" type? "I thought models had to be skinny little things who look like they haven't eaten in two weeks," Cyndi laughed. If our readers are any indication, Cyndi is more than the right type—she's perfect. And Cyndi's honestly sensual personality is a true bonus. In fact, she's as sweet on the inside as what you see on the outside.

WELCOME TO VOYEURS' FAVE AMATEUR SHOWCASE SINCE 1976!

BEAVER HUNT

EDITED BY MORGEN "TEX" HAGEN

MONICA MINX

"Nude modeling allows me to fully embrace my body," says Monica Minx, 28, a XXX performer from Lakeland, Florida. "What I like best about the adult industry are the people I work with. Looking down the road, I want to make enough money to be happy with my life doing what I love." The 5-foot-2 Sunshine Stater continues, "When I have free time, I enjoy hiking, painting and working out. As a matter of fact, my most daring tryst was having sex in a public gym." Monica, a bisexual devotee of "personal connections and chemistry," rounds out her Beaver Hunt foray with these comments: "My favorite sexual activities are giving head and doggy fucking, both hard and gentle. The best way to make me come is hitting my G spot, and I like having guys shoot their loads on my face and ass. I'm an always-horny little minx. I masturbate with a vibrator once a day." —Photos by Tampa Steve

“My dream lover is a funny guy who can crack a good joke and has a big dick.”

Birthday Delights

It's time to feast your eyes on a handful of Beavers celebrating birthdays in February. Ruby Diamond from Albany, New York, confided, "I suffered from body dysmorphia for a very long time. I didn't like my looks, but nude modeling has really helped me to see my beauty and love myself in a way I never thought was possible." Monica Monroe from Sacramento, California, asserted, "I'm a sexual adventurer, and my legs are open to everyone! So there's pretty much nothing sex-related that I haven't done or won't do." Tia Kai from Diamond Bar, California, said, "I had day jobs in pharmaceuticals until I took a hiatus to see if the adult biz was a better choice. I might never go back. Getting guys to pop a boner is an awesome way to make a living." Amy Page from Lafayette, Louisiana, told us, "I want to capture my youth in pictures and share my body with the world." Sierra Spunk from San Diego, California, recalled,"Being a part of HUSTLER was a fun little goal of mine for quite a while. When I was a teenager, I hid in my grandfather's bathroom and secretly looked at his HUSTLER magazines. I thought the women looked so beautiful and powerful. I thought I'd never be that comfortable with nude modeling." Happy birthday, ladies!

RUBY DIAMOND

MONICA MONROE

"Something I'm fixin' to do is be naked on a Mardi Gras parade float in New Orleans."

"I like to say I'm bi-situational. I crave a good dick to finish me off, but if the mood strikes with a girlfriend, I won't say no."

SIERRA SPUNK

RUNE SIPORA

“I’m a free-spirited soul and a living sex fairy,” declares Rune Sipora, 30, from San Diego, California. That makes me a perfect fit for your amazing magazine. I feel so special appearing in HUSTLER.” The 5-foot-4 cutie goes on to mention, “I’m into nature, swimming—especially under waterfalls—dancing, twerking and aerial arts.” Even though Rune doesn’t sport a pair of fairy wings, she soars to cloud-nine thanks to her favorite pastime. “I have a sensational appetite for sex,” she explains. “I love trying new things and exploring my erotic edges with my friends. I have an oral fixation too. I’m always up for deepthroating—with lots of drool spewing out of my mouth—facials and swallowing yummy cum.” Orgies, rough sex and BDSM are also in her amorous repertoire. “I’m a bratty sub who likes to switch the dynamics,” Rune admits. “And I love having sex and masturbating outdoors. Toys first made me squirt.”

"I dream of being in an orgy surrounded by waterfalls."
